(Below is part of Jean's interview with some foreigners in Taiwan.)

Kelly: I don't think so. Pronunciation is not so important. Language is just a tool. You don't need to sound like an American. If people can understand your ideas, why do you need to care about it so much? I believe learning more vocabulary is more helpful.

Stanley: Yeah, I agree with Kelly. I think it's more important that you try to use new words or new phrases. Don't be afraid to make mistakes and keep practicing speaking English. Your pronunciation will be getting better and better.

Kimiko: Well, English pronunciation means a lot to me because sometimes people don't understand me, and I feel so bad. I am sometimes afraid to speak English in front of people although I know the correct sentences.

Vicky: I think it is important because it's easier for the listener if he / she doesn't need to guess someone's ideas all the time. I always feel bad when I don't understand other people's English. It's just too hard for me.

John: Although I am an American, I don't really care about other people's pronunciation. In fact, even American English and British English could sound very different. There is no specific standard at all.

At the beginning of this year, we invited several new fashion designers to join us because we wanted to give a new look to Catwalk. This chart shows how it has worked. You can see the move did bring much more young people under the age of 30 to our department store; however, I'm not really happy with it. We are losing our old customers, and the items bought by those new customers were cheaper than the ones bought by those over the age of 30. Also, the young customers asked for more bags and paper to pack the items and made more trash in our store. That raised a lot of costs when we made much less money. By the end of this year, I'm asking you all to come up with new ideas that will help make up for the mistake we've made and bring in more money to Catwalk.

I can't believe that Joseph Su will come to Taiwan! I've loved him for more than five years. I never miss any of his movies. This will be his first fan meeting in Taiwan, and I'm so excited! I surely have to go!

Sep. 21

I just checked on Su's website and got the fan meeting date: Oct. 20. Luckily, it's Friday, so I think I can go since the fan meeting begins at 6 p.m. But I'm a little worried because the fan meeting is held in a local gym, which is far from my school and my home. I need to think about how to get there.

Sep. 22

Ivy got the fan meeting ticket and also bought one for me. Oh, I'm so happy! I told her that I'll surely treat her to dinner. Ivy will also go to the fan meeting with me. However, I didn't know that she is a fan of Joseph Su, too. I guess we will have more to talk about at school.

Sep. 23

Ivy's father said he can drive us to the gym and pick us up after the fan meeting. This can't be true! Everything goes well, and thanks a lot for Ivy and her father's help. To be honest, my father will never do that for me. He always thinks it's silly to be crazy about an actor so much. Anyway, I am going to see Joseph Su in a month! I really can't wait!

Dear Mom and Dad,

Uncle Henry took me to Mengjia today, and we experienced a festival there. There's a temple over 150 years old for the King of Qingshan in Mengjia. The Qingshan King is believed by many people to be a city god who takes care of good people and punishes bad guys. The king's birthday is in three days, so people held a festival to celebrate it today. The festival began at 16:00. Some people carried the black statue of the king and walked around in Mengjia. Lots of people waited for the king on both sides of the streets. Uncle Henry and I were among them. The photo I sent with the e-mail shows where I was, and behind me was the king passing by. It's cool, isn't it?

After the god left, we went to the night market that used to be famous for the show of killing snakes. Well, I did see some restaurants that sell snake meat, but I didn't see anyone kill snakes. We didn't enter those restaurants. We went for other foods. I enjoyed the sweet taste of the rice balls in red bean soup, and Uncle Henry's favorite dish was goose meat.

Tomorrow, we're leaving for Kaohsiung. Uncle Henry said the city also has night markets where the tastes of the foods are different from those in Taipei. I should try them, too.

Love you both,

Lora

Lily: We went there last Sunday, and we had to wait in line to get on or get in almost everything. However, the mini-theater and the museum were quite nice. We watched a 3D show about animals. When the boys were running around outside, I spent some quiet time reading interesting storybooks to my baby girl in the library. It was a great bonus to me—a place to rest.

Jack216: I went there with my kids on the opening day, and we paid NT$500 to get in. There were lots of people on that day. Luckily, I have a fifteen-year-old boy and a fourteen-year-old girl, and they could help look after their brothers. So, I could rest with my 2-year-old girl in the library.
